Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about corruption. The various attacks on the FBI leave the impression of a cover up. The ongoing investigation into people associated with the executive branch might be expected to cause nervousness but the frequent meddling makes things look worse. You commented frequently on the investigations shortly after taking office. You fired Mr Comey using a transparently flimsy excuse. You complained about the recusal of Attorney General Sessions. Most recently you have been maligning the FBI and Mr Mueller. Each of these actions is a clear breach of protocol. Each of these actions leaves the impression that you have something to hide. Each of these actions increases the worry that the executive will be placed beyond the reach of law. Such an authoritarian shift will greatly weaken our country.

Please assure me that you will respect the rule of law.

I am very proud to be a US citizen and a large part of that derives from our honest government.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
