Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about state secrets. Many agencies classify information to head off and investigate crimes, gain insight into world events and protect people's safety. As a mathematician, I and many of my classmates were recruited by the NSA giving a glimpse into this process. Russian and Saudi security agencies are particularly dangerous as both are known for assassinations around the world but unfortunately, you and Mr Kushner flatter, meet privately and even secretly with and defend against US intelligence agencies the leaders of both countries. Your campaign discussed a phone line in the Russian embassy and colluded to steal our election. Now you are stonewalling congress over Mr Kushner's irregular security clearance and this week Ms Newbold revealed that dozens more were granted over the objections of the CIA.

Please assure me that you will keep state secrets from security risks.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our competent government.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
