Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about deportation antics.

You and Secretary Noem continue to ignore constitutional rights in deportation proceedings even in the face of multiple direct court orders. These actions would be laughable were the stakes not so high. The government argument that officials were too stupid to understand District Judge Murphy's order is sadly plausible. One victim's supposed destination shifted within hours between Lybia, South Africa, South Sudan and Myanmar while flight tracking put his plane in Djibouti. Leaked emails show your lackeys - rather than following the obvious, moral and court ordered approach of retrieving someone illegally deported looking at ways to injure him further. They did force his wife and young son into hiding by posting their address online. Murphy notes that: Its a big deal to lie to a court under oath. Please assure me that you will respect the constitution.

My pride in the US derives in part from our bill of rights.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
