Dear Mr President:

I am very concerned by the threats to health insurance. You have threatened to cut health insurance funding, a move which would likely destabilize several state markets. You have already cut advertising and signed an order vaguely threatening other cuts. These poorly planned attacks seem similar to the resistance several state governments have provided. These actions have given people in the states in question fewer, more expensive and less effective insurance options than experienced by people in states in which the governments acted in good faith. Such federal policies would be irresponsible and cause a great deal of suffering throughout the country.

Please assure me that you will responsibly administer the affordable health care act.

I am very proud to be a US citizen and a large part of that derives from our responsible government.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
