Dear Mr President:

I am very concerned by corruption. You appear corrupt when emphasizing loyalty to yourself, rather than the country. In your stump speeches you requested loyalty to yourself, rather than the country. You have been filling your administration with your relatives and those who have worked for you, rather than the country. You fired the prosecutor for New York and personally interviewed his replacement for not working with you, rather than the country. You fired the head of the FBI for failing to pledge loyalty to you, rather than the country. Most recently you suggested to the New York Times that the Attorney General was unfair in his recusals to you, rather than the country. Your actions strongly suggest that you have something to hide from your country.

Please assure me that you will act in the best interests of your country.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our honest government.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
