Dear Senator Feinstein:

I am concerned ethnic cleansing. Horrific stories are emerging from Burma. The estimated half million new international refugees add to what was already the largest refugee crisis since the world wars. These attacks must be condemned in the strongest terms. Congress has the power to make life difficult for those responsible and also to help those afflicted. Too often the response to such crises has been tragically slow. The horrors in Rwanda, Serbia and Syria all come to mind. Responses could include condemnation, economic and military sanctions both from the US and from the UN as well as threats of military actions such as no fly zones. The US president is amoral and incoherent. It falls to the Senate to act.

Please assure me that you will condemn the Burmese genocide.

I am very proud to be a US citizen and a large part of that derives from our moral world leadership.

s Sincerely,
Eric Babson
