Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about climate change. As pollution has risen with the rebounding world economy and ever improving science has shown the risks even worse than previously feared the world is headed for disaster. Since the last election the House appears to have begun to grasp the magnitude of the problem with a green new deal statement of principles making the rounds and dozens of hearings looking into associated issues. The Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee has convened. The supreme court ruled for science and against Exxon. Director Coats issued a Worldwide Threat Assessment and the 13 agency National Climate Assessment also cataloged the threat. Unfortunately the unparalleled bully pulpit of the President has been used to sow doubt despite the protests of dozens of past officials. This inconvenient truth was dropped from the National Security Strategy and a farcical new panel is being convened reminiscent of VP Pence's voter fraud panel.

Please assure me that you will support the Green New Deal.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our scientific leadership.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
