Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about climate. Science is uniquely able to get at truth whether or not it is expected or desired and US government agencies have built some of the greatest scientific groups in the world. Your presidency is unfortunately based almost entirely on lies from trivial to momentous leading now to your suppression of science. You have personally attacked both global warming and the dangers of pollution. The EPA has been undermined by restricting which research can be cited and which types of effects can be considered in studying pollutants. Studies on global warming have been undermined by mandating vocabulary, burying reports and now restricting the modeling data used in those reports. The world has come to rely on the work of US agencies as the best source for understanding both weather and climate. Your attacks are hurting the ability of humanity to respond to this crisis. Please assure me that you will support and respond to the science of climate change.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our scientific leadership.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
