Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about deregulation. One basic role of a federal government is setting uniform consistent rules to stabilize markets and work for the public good. The EPA plan to gut Obama's emission standards is as unimaginative as it is destructive with the goal of destroying anything associated with your nemesis the only plausible motivation. It hurts both the country and the world with thousands here and millions around the world dying every year from air pollution and climate change accelerating. It hurts the local control of states by ending California's rules. It even hurts the bottom lines for a dozen large corporations by leaving regulations in the courts and hence unpredictable for the foreseeable future.

Please assure me that the EPA will leave Obama's emissions standards in place.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our rational government.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
