Dear Senator Harris:

I am concerned about terrorizing immigrants. A society is judged by the treatment of those without power. Besides its moral bankruptcy this administration acts in bad faith. This week the president promised to arrest millions of law abiding American residents. Recently he also hinted at a return to kidnapping children or a move to dump people in random places around the country. He has also gone to extreme lengths to seize and redirect funds. People at our border are facing horrific conditions with squalid private detention facilities and dangerous desert crossings. Congress has reasonably responded with emergency funding bills in both chambers but I worry about leaving any possibility for the administration to misuse these funds to terrorize the very people they are meant to help.

Please assure me that congress will force the administration to help those crossing border.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our supportive society.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
