Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about climate. Today 'World Scientists' Warning of a Climate Emergency' came out. Last month 'The Missing Economic Risks in Assessments of Climate Change Impacts' did. Both scientists and economists are sounding the alarm that things are far worse than politicians appear to imagine. You continue to imperil humanity. Yesterday you officially headed the US out of the Paris accord. This week you changing coal ash rules to keep outdated plants alive. Last month you blackmailed car companies to back increased emissions in your suit against California. You have cut family planning both here and abroad and have generally pushed inequality both of which the warning notes add to the threat. The most obvious immediate effect at my house is the increasing fire season which you have blamed on insufficient sweeping.

Please declare a climate emergency.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our world leadership.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
