Dear Mr President:

I am concerned about red lights. Amsterdam may have a district but here they are everywhere. Americans are individualists governed by a constitution guaranteeing freedoms and yet there is a sheep-like herd mentality around traffic signals. Unelected officials decide arbitrarily to block up some intersections but not others. Where are the protests? Commerce is strangled as strings of poorly timed lights make some trips to the store too slow to be worth it. Red-lighters force others to slamn their brakes and pull around to get on their way. Besides, what could be less manly than being stopped dead by a small fragile lightbulb? I know you have been focused on masks but traffic rules are clearly more offensive.

Please assure me that you will hold antilight rallies.

I am very proud to be a US resident and a large part of that derives from our freedom.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
