Dear Mr President:

I am concerned for the climate.

The world remains on track for disasterous climate changes. The US once led moves to help. You have ended participation in the Paris agreement, cancelled numerous alternative energy projects and made enough regulatory changes to already increase prediced US emmissions. Rather than join state attempts to sue polluters the DoJ this week filed counter suits. You have also moved to blind us to what is coming with many climate related grants cancelled, NOAA scientists fired and preparation of the national climate assessment halted. Alternative facts may play well on Fox and X but the weather - sharpies not withstanding - does not care what you say and knowlege at least gives a shot at useful action.

Please assure me that you will cut greenhous emmissions.

My pride in the US derives in part from our modeling expertise.

Sincerely,
Eric Babson
