By Dave Jones

Two UC Davis artists came upon it nearly 50 years ago, this odd assembly of wood covered in green linoleum, a footrest of some sort — and a slanted one at that.

It cost 50 cents at a salvage shop, but, as the old saying goes, one man’s junk is another man’s treasure, or, in this case, the art world’s treasure, an icon of the 1960s — a muse for countless other works.

It came to be called the Slant Step, made a splash in a Bay Area show, and, then, after just a few years on campus, the step was gone, off to see the world, or the East Coast, anyway, returning occasionally for exhibitions like the one this summer at the Nelson Gallery. See separate story about the show, Flatlanders on the Slant.

The show’s opening reception July 12 included a surprise announcement: UC Davis art alumni Frank Owen (an abstract painter) and Art Schade (sculptor) had donated the Slant Step to the university’s Fine Arts Collection.

“This is a very important piece of UC Davis’ art history, and we are so grateful to have it,” Dean Jessie Ann Owens of the Division of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies told Dateline UC Davis.

In fact, in any discussion of the UC Davis art department’s claims to fame, the Slant Step ranks right up there with the California funk movement.

The Slant Step’s history as an “objet d’art” began in 1965 when Professor William T. Wiley and graduate student Bruce Nauman came across the seemingly useless object in a Marin County shop. Wiley paid the 50 cents and Nauman kept the step in his studio for inspiration (and footrest!).

Owen studied art at UC Davis around the same time (bachelor’s degree in 1966 and master’s in 1968) and would become the Slant Step’s caretaker for 45 years. “Somebody has got to keep the damn thing, so we — myself, Arthur Schade and a couple of other buddies — kept it,” Owen said in a 2010 interview with the Vermont Quarterly, out of the University of Vermont, a few months before his retirement from the art faculty.

All through his academic career, Owen used the step as his “teaching pal” — in Sacramento, San Francisco, New York, Virginia, North Carolina and, finally, Vermont, asking his students to ponder its meaning (and their own).

Still, in his interview with the Vermont Quarterly, he cautioned: “We shouldn’t take it too seriously; it’s essentially a whimsical entity. It’s just some clunky, funny, funky object that nobody knows what it’s about. And it looks so humble.”

Coming out party in 1966

In 1966, Wiley organized the Slant Step Show that served as a coming out party of sorts for what would become a symbol of American art of the era. The San Francisco show featured Slant Steps “made of bread, of colored plastic with electric lights inside, of wood and metal and silk, and probably of chewing gum, too: It’s that kind of show,” according to the San Francisco Chronicle’s account.

About the aesthetic meaning of Slant Step-inspired work, Owen told the Vermont Quarterly: “It’s so characteristic about an attitude that Bay Area artists had — well, compared to New York — at the time. ...

“So the Slant Step, I always have seen it as a San Francisco version of a Bronx cheer to all of the theoretical folk — raising the point that art is what artists make, not what theoreticians say you should make. If we want to make art about this stupid, humble, little, green linoleum object, why, we’ll do it.”

In 1967, Owen took the step along for the first day of his first paid teaching job, advanced drawing, at California State University, Sacramento:

“I plunked it on the model stand and I unrolled a scroll on which I’d written all of these different constructions using meanings of the word to draw — drawn close, drawn against, drawn through, drawn fine — and I told the students to make drawings based on this language of this object.”

The next year he and his wife left for New York. “We drove across the country in a VW beetle and the Slant Step rode in the back seat. Thus began its time in the East.”

Bouncer, no; patient model, yes

The legend of the Slant Step grew to include stories of a vagabond existence, with Owen recounting how the step washed dishes at a Taco Bell, worked as a bouncer at an Upper East Side brothel, and suavely dazzled society matrons and debs at the Ak-Sar-Ben (that’s Nebraska spelled backward) ball in Omaha.

“But, alas, it would not be true,” Owen wrote in an e-mail to Dateline UC Davis. “The poor little thing didn’t get to have any of those adventures. But as it was in my loft in the new neighborhood of Soho in Manhattan in the 1970s, it did have a deal of fun. It met all kinds of art luminaries and sat around with them while they ate my chili and drank beer. It was exciting.”

Sometimes, he would pack the step in a formidable crate and ship it off to galleries and museums for retrospective shows, but, mostly, the step resided with him. (Well, except for the time Richard Serra spirited it off to New York, and someone else spirited it back.)

Owen joined the Vermont faculty in 1991, and, on the day he retired, in December 2010, he gave his advanced drawing class the same Slant Step assignment that he had given at Sac State in 1967.

The Slant Step which he described as “probably the shabbiest teaching tool at Vermont,” retired, too.

“Throughout New England (especially Vermont) and other states, gathering dust in the garages, basements and attics of parents, are hundreds of undergraduate drawing class portfolios that include at least one drawing of the Slant Step,” Owen said in an e-mail.

“This was its job — to pose on a model stand patiently (which it is very good at) and be drawn while also posing its eternal question: What is this thing, what is it for and why do we attend to it?”

Part of the UC Davis art story

When his teaching career ended, Owen started thinking about a new home for the Slant Step. He said he and Schade — “the active members of what was called the New York Society for the Preservation of the Slant Step” — chose UC Davis for a couple of reasons, among them the donors’ status as alumni (Schade received a Master of Fine Arts in 1970). Other factors: The Nelson Gallery already holds a rich collection of step-inspired works, and the university plans to build a museum where Northern California art will be a focus.

“The Slant Step is certainly part of that story,” Professor Owen said.

“Finally, I had enjoyed the companionship of the Slant Step for 45 years and thought it time that it could frolic happily on the shores of Putah Creek.”

The Slant Step, when Owen shipped it around the country, carried an insurance valuation of $250,000. But don’t think for a minute that he and Schade are splitting that amount for tax deductions.

“The valuation for the purpose of making this gift is 50 cents,” Owen said. “That is the amount that legend has it that Bill Wiley paid at the Mount Carmel salvage shop in Mill Valley way back when.

“So, if I or Art Schade are to benefit financially from this donation, it will be in the Schedule A tax-deductible amount of two bits.”

NEWS BRIEFS: Retirement plan contribution rates go up

A payroll reminder: Checks for your work in July may reflect a higher deduction for the UC Retirement Plan.

The increase, which took effect July 1, showed up on checks issued this week for employees who are paid biweekly, and will show up Aug. 1 for employees who are paid monthly.

The new contribution rate affects only active members of the UCRP and is subject to collective bargaining for represented employees.

The employee contribution rate is now 5 percent of pay, up from roughly 3.5 percent. The university is paying more, too: 10 percent, up from 7 percent.

The Board of Regents has already approved one more increase, in July 2013, to 6.5 percent for employees and 12 percent for the university — for a combined contribution rate that will for the first time in many years cover the annual increase in UCRP liability for active members (more than 17 percent of pay on average).

Time reduction, military pay policies renewed

The UC Office of the President announced the renewal of two work time and pay policies for two more years, through June 30, 2014:

The renewals came after a 30-day period for employee comments.

The Employee-Initiated Reduction in Time

The UC Davis campus participates, but the UC Davis Health System does not, due to the necessity to have a full-time staff to provide patient care 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The program allows career staff — except senior management group members — to voluntarily reduce their work hours and pay to help campuses save money in this tough budget climate. In exchange, employees receive certain advantages, such as accrual of vacation and sick leave at pre-ERIT rates. Note: UC Retirement Plan service credit accrual is based on the reduced percentage of appointment.

Under the Supplement to Military Pay policy, applicable systemwide, the university compensates any employee who is serving in the war on terror and who makes less in military pay and allowances than what he or she earns at UC (the university pays the difference).

The policy also provides for the university's continued payment of the employer's share of medical, dental, vision and life insurance policies, for employees who are receiving supplemental pay.

Employees called to active duty, and who are not eligible for supplemental pay, may continue their health coverage — with the university paying the employer's share of the premiums.

Both ERIT and the Supplement to Military Pay policy are subject to collective bargaining for represented employees.

IN MEMORIAM: Norm Haard and Ming Wong

Norman Haard: Food biochemist

Haard

Professor Emeritus Norman Haard, a food biochemist who retired in 2003, died June 29 at his home in Magalia (Butte County) after a nine-year battle with cancer. He was 70.

“In many ways, Norm’s life centered around the central theme of fish,” said Vicky Haard, his wife of 48 years. “Fish were not only the subject of his scientific research, fishing was also his favorite hobby, fish his favorite food and the fisherman a symbol in his Christian faith,” she said.

Norm Haard joined the UC Davis faculty in 1986 as a professor in the Department of Food Science and Technology.

“The department wanted to find the best scientist in the country to advance our understanding of the biochemistry of fish and seafood,” recalled Professor Emeritus Larry Merson, former department chair. “At the same time, we wanted to find someone who understood the importance of the seafood industry with respect to the American diet. We found that unique person in Norm Haard.”

Merson noted that Haard brought with him a stellar record of research and teaching in marine resources, as well as experience working on the biochemistry of fruits and cereals.

Haard’s 35-year career began with postharvest physiology studies of fruits and vegetables. But, after becoming familiar with the strong fisheries of Newfoundland, he changed his research focus to the postharvest physiology and biochemistry of marine substrates, which are the molecules on which enzymes act.

Broadly, his food biochemistry research focused on the science and technology of marine food products, use of fishery by-products and unconventional species, and the role of enzymes in seafood processing. Haard, a native of Queens, New York City, earned a bachelor's degree in food science from Rutgers University in 1963 and a doctoral degree in food biochemistry from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, in 1967.

After serving a postdoctoral fellowship at the Institute for Enzyme Research at the University of Wisconsin–Madison, he returned to Rutgers to join the faculty of the Department of Food Science in 1968. He served as a professor of biochemistry at Memorial University in St. John's, Newfoundland, from 1976 to 1986.

Haard authored more than 250 articles in peer-reviewed scientific journals, and served for 30 years as associate editor and then editor-in-chief of the Journal of Food Biochemistry. He contributed to several textbooks and held four patents.

He advised and mentored more than 100 master's and doctoral degree students from around the world; and he helped in the establishment of higher education food biochemistry programs, or aided them, in China, Pakistan, Mexico, Uruguay, Thailand and Canada.

He was a fellow of the Institute of Food Technologists and received the institute's Samuel Cate Prescott Award for research. He was named the young scientist of the year in Canada, and received the Earl P. McFee Award from the Atlantic Fisheries Technology Conference.

Haard grew up fishing with his father in the Atlantic, and the younger Haard would go on to fish the Pacific and throughout the United States, as well as Newfoundland, New Zealand, Mexico and Ghana.

He was active in churches in Davis and Paradise (Butte County), and in The Gideons International, which distributes Bibles in more than 180 countries.

In addition to his wife, his survivors include three children, Elizabeth Schatz, Theodore Haard and Daniel Haard; and six grandchildren.

A memorial service was held July 6 in Paradise. Memorial donations may be made to the Ridge Presbyterian Church Mission Fund or to The Gideons International, in care of Newton–Bracewell Funeral Home, 680 Camellia Way, Chico 95926.

Ming Wong: Professor of parasitology

Wong

Ming Wong, 84, a professor emerita of parasitology, died June 28 of lung cancer at a retirement community in Media, Pa. She had moved there recently from Davis.

She began her career in parasite research in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. She joined the California National Primate Research Center at UC Davis in 1967, and subsequently became a full professor in the Department of Pathology, Microbiology and Immunology at the School of Veterinary Medicine.

She was a longtime resident of Davis, where she was among the co-founders of the Davis Chinese Christian Church.

Wong, who retired in 1988, had published or presented 190 scientific papers or meeting abstracts and had written several books. She composed 29 songs as memory aids, to help student learn the names of parasites; the songs are being distributed around the world.

The Singapore native received a bachelor's degree in biology at Wilmington College, Ohio, in 1952; a Master of Science degree in zoology at Ohio State University in 1953; and a doctorate in medical parasitology at Tulane University in 1963.

Wilmington College honored her in 1984 as a distinguished alumna.

She is survived by two sisters, Stella Lee and Phyllis Gilmour, and a brother, Lik Wong.

A celebration of her life is planned at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 28, at the Davis Chinese Christian Church, 536 Anderson Road (parking at 635 Anderson Road).

Donations in her memory may be made to the Davis Chinese Christian Church, for the Seminary Scholarship Fund.

A wrinkle in space-time

Mathematicians at UC Davis have come up with a new way to crinkle up the fabric of space-time -- at least in theory.

"We show that space-time cannot be locally flat at a point where two shock waves collide," said Blake Temple, professor of mathematics at UC Davis. "This is a new kind of singularity in general relativity."

The results are reported in two papers by Temple with graduate students Moritz Reintjes and Zeke Vogler, respectively, both published in the journal Proceedings of the Royal Society A.

Einstein's theory of general relativity explains gravity as a curvature in space-time. But the theory starts from the assumption that any local patch of space-time looks flat, Temple said.

A singularity is a patch of space-time that cannot be made to look flat in any coordinate system, Temple said. One example of a singularity is inside a black hole, where the curvature of space becomes extreme.

Temple and his collaborators study the mathematics of how shockwaves in a perfect fluid can affect the curvature of space-time in general relativity. In earlier work, Temple and collaborator Joel Smoller, the Lamberto Cesari professor of mathematics at the University of Michigan, produced a model for the biggest shockwave of all, created from the Big Bang when the universe burst into existence.

A shockwave creates an abrupt change, or discontinuity, in the pressure and density of a fluid, and this creates a jump in the curvature. But it has been known since the 1960s that the jump in curvature created by a single shock wave is not enough to rule out the locally flat nature of space-time.

Vogler's doctoral work used mathematics to simulate two shockwaves colliding, while Reintjes followed up with an analysis of the equations that describe what happens when shockwaves cross. He found this created a new type of singularity, which he dubbed a "regularity singularity."

What is surprising is that something as mild as interacting waves could create something as extreme as a space-time singularity, Temple said. Temple and his colleagues are investigating whether the steep gradients in the space-time fabric at a regularity singularity could create any effects that are measurable in the real world. For example, they wonder whether they might produce gravity waves, Temple said. General relativity predicts that these are produced, for example, by the collision of massive objects like black holes, but they have not yet been observed in nature. Regularity singularities could also be formed within stars as shockwaves pass within them, the researchers theorize.

Reintjes, now a postdoctoral scholar at the University of Regensburg, Germany, presented the work at the International Congress on Hyperbolic Problems in Padua, in June.

Researchers outline national low carbon fuel standard (VIDEO)

WASHINGTON -- The UC Davis Institute of Transportation Studies, which helped California create the nation's first low carbon fuel standard in 2009, today joined five other leading research institutions in releasing a series of studies designed to establish a national standard.

In a bipartisan briefing on Capitol Hill, the researchers said that a national standard will ensure fuels of the future are cleaner, cheaper and "made in America."

"A national low carbon fuel standard is a promising framework to help solve the transportation energy challenges that have eluded us for several decades," said Daniel Sperling, director of the UC Davis Institute of Transportation Studies. "Technologically, such a standard is very doable. And it can help us address the complex choices with conventional oil, shale gas, oil sands, biofuels and electric vehicles."

Joining the scientists at the briefing were representatives of the automobile, electric utility and biofuels industries.

A low carbon fuel standard, designed to reduce the amount of carbon in transportation fuels, would require all energy companies to meet a common target for carbon intensity but leave it up to the companies to decide how to reach that goal. So, for example, an oil company might choose to diversify into electric or hydrogen fuels. It might add more low carbon biofuels to its mix of offerings. Or it might buy credits from companies that specialize in low carbon fuels, or that can lower the carbon intensity of their fuels more efficiently.

The peer-reviewed reports will be published in an upcoming special issue of the Energy Policy Journal, from science and health publisher Elsevier.

The reports were produced through the National LCFS Project -- a UC Davis-led collaboration among researchers from six top U.S. institutions, each looking at a different aspect of how a low carbon fuel standard would affect America's energy posture, national security, environment and economy. The participating researchers are from Oak Ridge National Laboratory, the University of California, the University of Illinois, the University of Maine, Carnegie Mellon University and the International Food Policy Research Institute.

"A low carbon fuel standard encourages innovation and diversity by harnessing market forces," said participating researcher Jonathan Rubin, professor of economics at the University of Maine. "These reports provide practical policy recommendations, and are designed to inject scientific information into the national conversation on a low carbon fuel standard."

Building on low carbon fuel standard policies already adopted in Europe, British Columbia and California, the researchers looked at potential costs and benefits of reducing the carbon intensity of transportation fuels by 10 to 15 percent by 2030.

Researchers found a national low carbon fuel standard would:

"Our current energy posture has left America's economy exposed to global oil price spikes; a national low carbon fuel standard would substitute domestic resources like ethanol, natural gas, and electricity for imported oil, providing energy security savings up to $22 a barrel."

- buffer the economy against global oil price spikes;
- trim demand for petroleum;
- create fresh opportunities for new fuels to compete in the marketplace;
- save consumers money over the medium term and long term could come from wider adoption of plug-in electric vehicles and fuel cell vehicles that run on hydrogen.
- boost energy security.

 The researchers say deep reductions in emissions from transportation over the medium term and long term could come from wider adoption of plug-in electric vehicles and fuel cell vehicles that run on hydrogen. Fuels from waste materials -- from agricultural and forestry leftovers to municipal waste -- are another important source of low carbon fuel.

"A national low carbon fuel standard creates a strong market signal that attracts investment and spurs innovation in clean fuel technologies, increases consumption of clean fuels and lowers average consumer fuel prices, for a total savings of $411 billion by 2035 on fuel expenditures as compared to business as usual," said Madhu Khanna, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign's Department of Agricultural and Consumer Economics.

The researchers found a national low carbon fuel standard would encourage farmers to grow crops that are especially suitable for conversion to fuel, rather than selling food crops into the biofuels market. That would ease pressure on food prices while giving farmers profitable options for degraded cropland.

"We have a big challenge that cannot be solved overnight, but these recommendations provide a framework for moving America toward a more sustainable transportation system. We look forward to spurring a national dialogue," said Sonia Yeh of the UC Davis Institute of Transportation Studies and co-chair of the National LCFS Project.

Fulbright scholars: Yeh, Mascal and Spiller

Professor Emeritus Yin Yeh and Associate Professors Mark Mascal and Henry Spiller are going overseas in the 2012-13 academic year as Fulbright scholars.

Mascal, of the Department of Chemistry, is one of about 40 people selected for the Distinguished Chairs Program, considered among the most prestigious appointments in the U.S. State Department's Fulbright Scholar Program.

He will spend the entire academic year as the Fulbright Distinguished Chair in Alternative Energy Technology at Chalmers University of Technology in Sweden.

Mascal, whose research specialty is in biofuels, said he will teach classes on alternative energy from a research perspective and also expects to collaborate on research projects.

Spiller, an ethnomusicologist, received a Fulbright award for more research in Indonesia, this time focusing on bamboo instruments. He plans to spend five months (starting around April) in and around Bandung, the capital city of the province of West Java and the cultural capital of Sundanese culture.

His previous research has focused on Sundanese dance and the music of gamelan — bronze percussion orchestras, like the ensemble he leads at UC Davis.

His inquiry into instruments made from bamboo “represents a new direction for me, albeit in a familiar place.”

Bamboo instruments appear in many social contexts in West Java: rural agricultural rituals, music education programs in schools and modern popular music.

Spiller noted bamboo's prominence in Sundanese landscapes and culture, and said he will explore how this prominence relates to the enduring role of bamboo musical instruments in creating a sense of Sundanese identity within multicultural Indonesia.

He said he hopes to collaborate with Sundanese scholars at the Bandung branch of Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia who are doing similar work.

He will be working with Professor Chien Chou in Taiwan and Atul Parikh, professor of chemical engineering and materials science at UC Davis, to initiate new studies on Alzheimer's disease.

Yeh said they hope to use optical methods to study how the amyloid protein interacts with cell membranes and damages nerve cells.

Chancellor and provost's letter

The chancellor and provost issued a statement to the campus community today (April 27) regarding the 11 UC Davis students and one professor facing misdemeanor charges stemming from the blockade of the U.S. Bank at Memorial Union. This morning's scheduled arraignment of the 12 individuals has been continued to May 10. In their letter, the chancellor and provost emphasized that "UC Davis has no desire for restitution or retribution, but only wishes to see the rights of everyone on campus preserved."

Yudof's statement

UC President Mark G. Yudof today (April 11) issued a statement shortly after the public release of the Reynoso task force report on the Nov. 18 pepper-spray incident at UC Davis. He thanked UC Davis Professor Emeritus Cruz Reynoso and other members of the task force "for the long hours and hard work they invested in this effort to fully understand the events of Nov. 18 and to propose remedies that might prevent similar incidents in the future."

"My intent now is to give the task force report the full and careful reading it deserves, and then, as previously announced, to meet with Chancellor Katehi and discuss her plans going forward for implementing the recommendations," Yudof said.

U.S. Bank

U.S. Bank has closed its UC Davis branch office and told UC officials that it is terminating its agreements with the campus. In a March 1 letter to the Board of Regents, the bank stated its reason as the interference by protesters who intermittently blocked the door to the bank branch in the Memorial Union since January.

The bank chose to close during many of the protests, and, now, in a letter to account holders, says the branch is "officially closed" (as of Feb. 28). The letter refers the approximately 2,500 account holders to U.S. Bank branches in Davis and Woodland.

UC officials said they believe the termination letter is premature, noting that the university had been in discussions with bank representatives about the future of the branch office. The university had hoped to resolve the situation in a manner that would enable the bank to resume operations while at the same time making allowance for law enforcement to prosecute proven violations of the California Penal Code and also allowing for peaceful protests. Read the complete article.

Blood draw nets 370 pints

Bloodmobiles drove off with 370 pints from the June 27–28 blood draw on the Quad.

Altogether, 431 people (including 86 new donors) registered for the ASUCD Summer Blood and Marrow Drive. Some of them ended up not giving blood, for a variety of reasons.

“These are wonderful results,” said Brie Leon, account representative for Sacramento-based BloodSource, which runs the campus blood drives.

“The summer is one of the hardest times for blood collection as high schools are out, colleges have lower enrollment, many people go on vacation and blood donation is not on everyone’s mind.

Poisons on public lands put wildlife at risk \(VIDEO\)

Rat poison used on illegal marijuana farms may be sickening and killing the fisher, a rare forest carnivore that makes its home in some of the most remote areas of California, according to a team of researchers led by University of California, Davis, veterinary scientists.

Researchers discovered commercial rodenticide in dead fishers in Humboldt County near Redwood National Park and in the southern Sierra Nevada in and around Yosemite National Park. The study, published July 13 in the journal PLoS ONE, says illegal marijuana farms are a likely source. Some marijuana growers apply the poisons to deter a wide range of animals from encroaching on their crops.

Fishers in California, Oregon and Washington have been declared a candidate species for listing under the federal Endangered Species Act.

Fishers, a member of the weasel family, likely become exposed to the rat poison when eating animals that have ingested it. The fishers also may consume rodenticides directly, drawn by the bacon, cheese and peanut butter “flavorizers” that manufacturers add to the poisons.

Other species, including martens, spotted owls, and Sierra Nevada red foxes, may be at risk from the poison, as well.

In addition to UC Davis, the study involved researchers from the nonprofit Integral Ecology Research Center, UC Berkeley, United States Forest Service, Wildlife Conservation Society, Hoopa Tribal Forestry, and California Department of Fish and Game.

“Our findings were very surprising since non-target poisoning from these chemicals is typically seen in wildlife in urban or agricultural settings,” said lead author Mourad Gabriel, a UC Davis Veterinary Genetics Laboratory researcher and president of the Integral Ecology Research Center. “In California, fishers inhabit mature forests within the national forest, national parks, private industrial and tribal community lands – nowhere near urban or agricultural areas.”

Researchers analyzed 58 fisher carcasses and discovered that 79 percent of them had been exposed to anticoagulant rodenticides. Brodifacoum, a second-generation rodenticide, was found in 96 percent of the exposed fishers.

Second-generation rodenticides are more toxic because they can be lethal after a single ingestion. It can take up to seven days before clinical signs appear, so the poisoned animal can be a significant risk to predators for several days before it dies.

“I am really shocked by the number of fishers that have been exposed to significant levels of multiple second-generation anticoagulant rodenticides,” said pathologist Leslie Woods of the UC Davis California Animal Health and Food Safety Laboratory System, which conducted the necropsies.

Anticoagulant rodenticides inhibit the ability of fishers and other mammals to recycle vitamin K. This creates a series of clotting and coagulation problems, which may lead to uncontrollable bleeding.

Exposure to the poison was high throughout the fisher populations studied, complicating efforts to pinpoint direct sources. The fishers, many of which had been radio-tracked throughout their lives, did not wander into urban or agricultural environments. However, their habitat did overlap with illegal marijuana farms.

The researchers describe a recent example in which more than 2,000 marijuana plants were removed by law enforcement officials less than 7.5 miles from one of the study areas. Large amounts of rodenticide were observed around the marijuana plants and along plastic irrigation lines.

The fisher deaths occurred between mid-April to mid-May, the optimal time for planting young marijuana plants outdoors -- and the time when seedlings are especially vulnerable to pests. This is also when fishers are breeding and raising their young.

Gabriel said fishers may be an “umbrella” species for other forest carnivores. In ecology, an umbrella species is one that, if protected, results in protection of other species, as well.

“If fishers are at risk, these other species are most likely at risk because they share the same prey and the same habitat," said Gabriel. "Our next steps are to examine whether toxicants used at illegal marijuana grow sites on public lands are also indirectly impacting fisher populations and other forest carnivores through prey depletion."

UC Davis and the Higgs boson: Past, present and future

Egghead: A roundup of news coverage featuring UC Davis physicists. Plus a 2009 clip from Comedy Central's Daily Show, featuring research physicist Richard Breedon.

By Andy Fell

Researchers working at the Large Hadron Collider at CERN, Switzerland, announced earlier this month that they had found a new particle with the characteristics predicted for the long-sought Higgs boson. UC Davis physicists have contributed to the Higgs search for more than 20 years and, with the new knowledge, are now exploring the next frontier in physics.

The Higgs boson is associated with the Higgs field, proposed in 1964, which gives mass to other particles in the universe.

"We're extremely excited," Professor Jack Gunion said. In 1990, he co-authored "The Higgs Hunter's Guide," and his theoretical work influenced the design of the detectors that were used to finally capture the fleeting particle.

Following the July 4 announcement, the next step will be to study the properties of the new particle and see what it can tell scientists about current theory — the Standard Model of particle physics — and test new theories, such as supersymmetry, that try to go deeper.

"It closes this chapter, but another one is just beginning," said Mike Mulhearn, assistant professor of physics.

The Higgs boson is the last particle predicted by the Standard Model of particle physics to be detected in a laboratory.

"Until now the Higgs has been a term in an equation that had to be extremely fine tuned for the theory to be stable," said John Conway, professor of physics. Now the properties of the actual particle can be determined.

Added Robin Erbacher, professor of physics: "The question is, is this a Higgs from the Standard Model or a particle that looks like a Higgs and decays in the same way."

Building the Large Hadron Collider

In 1992, UC Davis — led by Professor (now emeritus) Richard Lander and Winston Ko, now dean of Mathematical and Physical Sciences — was among the first four U.S. universities to sign up for the effort to build the Compact Muon Solenoid (CMS), one of the three particle detectors that are part of the Large Hadron Collider in Switzerland. The others were UCLA, UC Riverside and the University of Texas at Dallas.

Lander's team had developed a concept for a detector based on a high-field magnet for an experiment in Japan, and proposed such a detector for the Superconducting Supercollider, a massive particle accelerator that was to be built in Texas. When their proposal was turned down, Lander and Ko took it to the Large Hadron Collider consortium instead and some of those ideas went into the CMS.

The following year, Congress canceled the Superconducting Supercollider, leading many more U.S. universities to join the CMS project.

The CMS is made up of a layered series of detectors and steel yokes that filter out background noise. A team of about 3,000 scientists from 39 countries works on the CMS alone; the machine is 52 feet in diameter and weighs almost 13,800 tons.

"It had to be a very robust design, capable of handling a very large number of events," said Richard Breedon, a UC Davis research physicist who has worked on the CMS since 1994.

Bump hunting

The collider smashes together two streams of protons, producing a spray of other fundamental particles that quickly decay into other particles. Because particles like the Higgs boson are very short-lived, they can only be detected by the characteristic wreckage left behind from their decay. According to the theory Gunion helped develop, Higgs bosons can decay in several characteristic ways. The detectors at the collider are designed to look for these decay products.

The physicists working on the project are divided into teams that comb through the data from these detectors, before the final results are combined.

To use the parable of the blind men, it's as if one team is looking for a trunk, another for some big ears, a third for a short tail, and so on. Then they discuss whether what they have found could be an elephant.

What they are really looking for is a "bump" in a plot where the data moves a few points out of line, Conway said. But a small bump could also be just a random fluctuation, so the physicists have been trying to collect enough data to say that the chances of a bump being a random event instead of a real particle are very small — one in 3.5 million or less. John Smith, a UC Davis research physicist, designed software that showed that background events could be screened out effectively.

Beyond the Standard Model

"What we're seeing might not be a Standard Model Higgs boson, but a Higgs boson from some beyond-the-Standard Model theory of physics," Conway said.

While the Standard Model has worked extremely well, it does require a lot of "fine tuning," comparable to seeing a pencil balanced on its point. Physicists hope they will now be able to see what is holding the pencil in place.

There are also the mysteries of "dark matter," an invisible material that makes up about a quarter of the universe, and "dark energy," which is causing the universe to expand at an accelerating rate.

The new Higgs particle and other experiments at the collider in Switzerland will help physicists test theories such as supersymmetry, which calls for a series of "super" particles that are partners to the Standard Model particles. At about 125 giga electron-volts (GeV), the candidate Higgs boson is at the size predicted by supersymmetry theory, Conway said.

The next piece of evidence would be to find the supersymmetric partner of a particle called the top quark, or "Stop quark," he said.

"It's an elusive target but it should be in reach of the LHC," Conway said.

The collider will continue its run at 8 tera electron-volts (TeV) until December, then shut down for about 18 months while it is upgraded to run at 14 TeV, Breedon said.

If supersymmetry turns out not to be true, physicists will have to turn to other ideas. It would also rule out some models for dark matter, Mulhearn said.

"What if we don't see supersymmetry and the Higgs is not the Standard Model Higgs?" Gunion asked. "That will be a huge debate."

As Conway put it, "The work is just beginning."

Cheap UGG | Email | December 26, 2011 | 7:34PM

UGG 3 <http://www.theuggboots.biz/> target="_blank"><http://www.theuggboots.biz/> The origins of the ugg boot style are disputed, with both Australia and New Zealand claiming to have been the origin of the footwear. Sheepskin boots <http://www.theuggboots.biz/> were known in rural Australia during the 1920s. While it is not clear when manufacturing started, by 1933 sheepskin boots were being manufactured by Blue Mountains Ugg Boots, and Mortels Sheepskin Factory was making the boots from the late 1950s. <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-2011-new-arrival-c-372.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> In regard to naming, it appears that ugg boots, ugh boots and ug boots have been used as descriptive terms for sheepskin boots in Australia and New Zealand since <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-australia-coquette-c-328.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> at least the 1960s, although individual accounts have suggested that the terms (or variations thereof) were employed earlier – for example, "fug boots" were worn by <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-australia-sundance-ii-boots-c-330.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> pilots during World War I. The 1970s saw the emergence of advertising using the names, but Brian Smith has stated that the boots were referred to as <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-bailey-button-boots-c-331.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> "uggs" long before the word was trademarked. Frank Mortel of Mortels Sheepskin Factory claims he named them "ugg boots" in 1958, when Mortels started production, after his wife commented that the first pair he made were "ugly." <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-bailey-button-metallic-5809-c-332.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> In the 1960s, ugg boots became a popular option for competitive surfers, who used the boots to keep their feet warm after exiting from the <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-classic-argyle-knit-boots-c-333.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> surf. Surfing helped popularise the boots outside Australia and New Zealand, when Brian Smith started selling the boots in the United States through the <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-classic-cardy-boots-c-334.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> company Ugg Holdings, Inc. in 1979. Ugg Holdings was sold to Deckers Outdoor Corporation in 1995. Generally worn for warmth and comfort, ugg boots had never <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-classic-crochet-boots-c-335.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> been considered fashionable, but in the late 1990s and early 2000s sheepskin boots emerged as a fashion trend in the US through

Deckers' promotions of the <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-classic-mini-boots-c-336.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> UGG brand, with celebrities such as Kate Hudson, Sarah Jessica Parker, Cameron Diaz, Leonardo DiCaprio and Jennifer Lopez wearing the boots, and with Oprah <http://www.theuggboots.biz/ugg-classic-short-boots-c-338.html?zenid=c67252d7fc9465b4f399f9eb579618e7> Winfrey featured UGG brand boots as one of her "Favorite Things" on her TV talk show. NikeFree 3 <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au> What is Nike Free? It's a simple idea: let your body perform as it wants to perform to develop significant performance benefits. This is the philosophy <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-c-3.html> of Nike Free, shoes that offer the proven benefits of barefoot training. Allowed their freedom, the toes will flex and grip, setting http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-tr-fit-2012-c-3_6.html off a natural chain that exercises muscles normally neglected in traditional footwear. By exercising these muscles, athletes can achieve small performance benefits, adding millimeters to a http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-tr-c-3_32.html vertical leap or shaving milliseconds off a race time, while strengthening key stabilizer muscles http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-70-v2-c-3_10.html that help prevent injuries. The outsoles of Nike Free shoes feature siping (deep slices) and reverse flex grooves to encourage flexion and extension in both directions. With a lightweight http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-trainer-70-c-3_8.html seamless upper atop this flexible outsole, Nike Free shoes merge the natural, healthy motion of a bare foot with the protection of traditional footwear. What is Nike Flywire? Nike Flywire <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free->

shoes-mens-nike-free-run-4-c-3_37.html technology consists of strategically placed filaments that function like cables on a suspension bridge and offer support precisely where it's needed. These strong filaments are applied to a http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-3-c-3_27.html minimalistic shoe upper, reducing weight to create Nike's lightest footwear. Paper-thin fabric http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-2-c-3_33.html covers the top of the foot, with the Flywire technology attaching to the outsole and holding the http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-c-3_35.html foot in place. Biomechanics experts in the Nike Sports Research Lab determine optimal placement http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-50-v4-c-3_13.html of the filaments. What is Lunarlite foam? Extremely lightweight and highly responsive, Nike's newest Lunarlite foam cushioning draws its inspiration from man walking on the moon. Lunarlite http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-50-v4-suede-c-3_14.html foam cushioning is 30% lighter than Phylon, Nike's next lightest performance foam. In addition to being lightweight and highly responsive, Lunarlite foam cushioning is soft and spreads http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-50-c-3_26.html out force evenly so athletes aren't putting excessive pressure on isolated areas of their feet. To http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-30-v3-c-3_17.html protect the Lunarlite foam, the midsole cushioning is encased in Phylon. How does Nike Shox technology work? The springs in a Nike Shox shoe are actually specially patented hollowed-out http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-30-v2-c-3_30.html columns that, combined with a Pebax dispersion plate, give a stable, smooth and responsive ride. Nike Shox columns collapse efficiently, toward the center rather than the edges of the heel, to http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-30-c-3_24.html control the impact of the foot and help propel it through footstrike. The ultimate in responsive <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-c-4.html> cushioning. What is Nike Air? Nike Air cushioning is offered in a vast array of Nike footwear styles. We offer several http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-free-xt-motion-fit-c-4_16.html different types of Nike Air so you can choose the best level of cushioning for you. Pressurized air is captured inside a tough yet flexible urethane bag. I have only read the reviews of it, and they are so enthusiastic that I must have the whole thing quick. I am well, as usual, and having a fine loaf, only I don't think much of what I have written--that's all."

A month of it will be enough of it and we will not get away from Amapala before the first of February.' curiosity was perfectly satisfied as to what we would do, and he shouted for mercy. And for the twenty-five years that followed that was what Richard did." It shows New York destroyed by Germans. I am greatly disappointed. As they came in they cheered and the garrison tried to cheer back but it was like a whisper. I have planned it out for days. Reports come to me of you from many sources, and they are all good, and they all reflect honor upon me-- Upon me as I'm getting ready to salute the world, as our French friends say. For years, no doubt, on a Christmas Day the story will be told in that house, wherever it may be in the millions of other houses of London, how a beautiful Countess and a wicked Duke were pitched into their front door out of a hansom cab, and after having partaken of their Christmas supper, disappeared again into a sea of fog.

<P>You have an idea I am a wild, filibustering, hot-headed young man. Confronted with the same conditions again, I would decide in exactly the same manner. Buda is a clean, old burgh, with yellow houses rising on a steep green hill, red roofs and towers and domes, showing <http://www.louisvuittonhandbagsell.org/> target="_blank">http://www.louisvuittonhandbagsell.org/ out of the trees-- It is very high but very steep and the procession wound in and out like a fairy picture-- I sat on the top of the hill, looking down it to the Danube, which separates Buda from Pest-- The Emperor sat across the square about 75 yards from our tribune in the balcony of his palace. So, now it is all over and it is done-- I have learned a great deal in an imperfect way of the juxtaposition of certain countries and of the ease with which one can travel without speaking any known languages <http://www.cheap-airjordanshoes.net/> target="_blank">http://www.cheap-airjordanshoes.net/ target="_blank">http://www.cheap-airjordanshoes.net/ and of the absolute necessity for speaking one, French. </P>
<P>I had another piece of luck that day with Gerald Morgan. This weather shows that Havana must be put off after Porto Rico. Indeed, he had given up the day as wasted, and was on his way to take the train back to Philadelphia. DICK. Yesterday the first batch of correspondents were sent on their way. Griscom is more aggravatingly leisurely but he has a most audacious humor and talks to the natives in a way that fills them with pleasure but which nearly makes Somers and I expose the whole party by laughing. However, we drove on, I riding and Cecil and Christian, the Kaffir, in the Cart. Tomorrow morning we return to Corinto as Somers and I like it best. (Second day out) 15th---We are now in Hungary and just outside of Buda Pesth "the wickedest city in the world," still in spite of that fact I am going on. </P>
<P>That is all we do and that is my life at Key West. A dreadnaught joined us today, the Louisiana. Especially clean clothes. John A. 24th, 1891.  delightful as Charley himself and unlike Chas he did not ask me 14

NikeFree 3 <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au> What is Nike Free? It's a simple idea: let your body perform as it wants to perform to develop significant performance benefits. This is the philosophy <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-c-3.html> of Nike Free, shoes that offer the proven benefits of barefoot training. Allowed their freedom, the toes will flex and grip, setting http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-tr-fit-2012-c-3_6.html off a natural chain that exercises muscles normally neglected in traditional footwear. By exercising these muscles, athletes can achieve small performance benefits, adding millimeters to a http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-tr-c-3_32.html vertical leap or shaving milliseconds off a race time, while strengthening key stabilizer muscles http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-70-v2-c-3_10.html that help prevent injuries. The outsoles of Nike Free shoes feature siping (deep slices) and reverse flex grooves to encourage flexion and extension in both directions. With a lightweight seamless upper atop this flexible outsole, Nike Free shoes merge the natural, healthy motion of a bare foot with the protection of traditional footwear. What is Nike Flywire? Nike Flywire http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-4-c-3_37.html technology consists of strategically placed filaments that function like cables on a suspension bridge and offer support precisely where it's needed. These strong filaments are applied to a http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-3-c-3_27.html minimalistic shoe upper, reducing weight to create Nike's lightest footwear. Paper-thin fabric http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-2-c-3_33.html covers the top of the foot, with the Flywire technology attaching to the outsole and holding the http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-run-c-3_35.html foot in place. Biomechanics experts in the Nike Sports Research Lab determine optimal placement http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/mens-nike-free-shoes-mens-nike-free-50-v4-c-3_13.html of the filaments. What is Lunarlite foam? Extremely lightweight and highly responsive, Nike's newest Lunarlite foam cushioning draws its inspiration from man walking on the moon. CHEAP OAKLEY SUNGLASSES | Email | May 16, 2012 | 7:47PM

So you've decided that it's time to get a great pair of Oakley sunglasses, but you're unsure of just where to get them. Well, how about your living room? <http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Oakley target="_blank"><http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Oakley target="_blank"><http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Oakley target="_blank"><http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Oakley Sunglasses Outlet That's right; you don't even have to leave your home to get the hottest styles available from this designer sunglass maker. Just hop on the internet, and you're sure to find the perfect pair of Oakleys.

Now that you realize where to go, all that's left is knowing what to look for in your next set of Oakley shades.

Which Oakley is for You?

In general, Oakley sunglasses are divided into three main categories: sport, active, <http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Oakley Sunglasses Cheap and lifestyle. Each area has distinct benefits. We'll give a brief explanation below.

Of course, the sport category is self-explanatory. These models focus on those who will be wearing their glasses while participating in a sports-related activity. There are several models to choose from, including specific ones, <http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Cheap Oakley Sunglasses like the Radar Range for golf. The sports models are meant to withstand the rigors of activity as well as enhance any athlete's most important sense -- their vision.

The active line of sunglasses walks the line between sport and style. The glasses are rugged and functional but have a sense of fashion that also makes them a good choice for everyday use. The frames in this family tend toward the lightweight, making them very comfortable to wear for long periods.

And finally, the lifestyle family is the choice that takes a fashion-first approach. The selections from this category will make certain that you stand out in a crowd. However, these glasses aren't just about looks. You'll still manage to protect your eyes from UVA/UVB/UVC rays while still looking your very best.

For added benefits, selections from each family come in a polarized version. These are great if you participate in a lot of activities in which glare must be at an absolute minimum. Also, for those that need glasses for environments where the lighting changes frequently and intensely, Oakley offers PhotoChromatic versions of the Jawbone, the Flak Jacket, and Radar models from their sport collection.

So You Think You're Special

It's OK if you think you deserve something a little different. Oakley has lines of limited edition and special edition models that favor those of us who want to stand out in a crowd. The limited edition includes uniquely designed Frogskins (which also includes the Jupiter LX version), and military-inspired selections. The limited edition is highlighted by the Artist series. Here, Oakley takes its most popular frames and adorns them with work from famous artists such as Frank Kozik and Stanley Donwood. The special edition models center around such institutions as Major League Baseball, Lance Armstrong's Live Strong Foundation, Ducati motorcycles, and King's camouflage. You'll also find a special signature series within this category with styles inspired by the company's famous endorsers.

As you can see, Oakley has quite a selection of models to choose from, no matter what your lifestyle. With just a few clicks, you can scan through dozens of models in the time it would normally take you just to get to the mall. And here's the best part: you don't have to leave your couch.

Oakley Sunglasses Outlet tting a great deal? To answer, we've listed a few suggestions that can help you decide if what looks like a bargain is real or just too good to be true.

Are They Real Oakleys?

First and foremost, you'll want to make sure what you are purchasing is the genuine article. Manufacturers in many emerging areas are flooding the market with tons of counterfeit merchandise. The last thing you want is to pay for a pair of Oakley glasses only to have them fall apart on you in a few months. Imagine your surprise when you ask the company to honor their warranty only to find out that you purchased a fake. Of course, there are some people who don't mind buying knockoffs to save a few dollars. However, I ask you this: how much money are you saving if you have to replace the fakes over and over again? Why not just pay a few extra dol

<http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/>
Oakley Sunglasses Cheap lars for the real thing and save money in the long run? Remember, the Oakley logo is easy to copy, but the innovative design and quality workmanship are difficult to replicate.

Is the Dealer Authorized?

Don't assume that just because the Oakleys you've found online are real that the dealer is automatically authorized. They could be selling overstocks or even used merchandise. Oakley doesn't just hand out licenses to carry their <http://www.cheapoakleysunglasseshut.org/> Cheap Oakley Sunglasses brand. They have a set of requirements that help guarantee that the company name will be represented appropriately to the customer. As such, Oakley will only honor its warranty if the item is purchased at an authorized dealer.

This alone is a great reason to only shop with authorized agents.

Your Oakleys are an investment, and it's best to deal with professionals who are adept at helping you protect that investment.

Read the Fine Print

Because you don't have the opportunity to try on your prospective purchase and ask the sales person a bunch of questions, it's best that you read your online retailer's fine print. Better yet, if there's an FAQ section or an online chat function, use it. Most importantly, you'll want to make sure there is a reasonable return policy, just in case. You'll also want to make sure your financial transaction is safe and secure. Look for logos and statements about security as well as ratings by sites such as Bizrate, Nextag, and Shopping.com.

Although there's much more to consider when buying designer sunglasses, it's safe to say that if your next purchase meets the criteria listed above, then you are truly on your way to finding a good deal.

A lot of well-known persons wear sunglasses, as they can provide a very good way of stopping the flash of photographer's cameras while also preventing the sun's rays from dazzling the eye balls. However, as many celebrities can manage to pay for to spend lots of dollars on sunglasses, they wear pretty pricey brandnames that not all of us can copy. This doesn't imply that other brand names aren't as good; one such case could be the Oakley range of custom sunglasses. There is also a fantastic collection of Oakley Accessories.

Oakley custom sunglasses have actually been around since the mid-1970s, and have really achieved a substantial amount of individuals who will not get another brand when Oakley is offered. You'll find a lot of reasons for this; fashion, top quality and cost are simply three elements. The Oakley custom selection of sunglasses is affordable for the general public while making sure they're keeping up with the latest look, one thing quite a few people need from their accessories.

Oakley are constantly innovating their selection of sunglasses; yet another reason why they are so well liked as there's always a wide variety of designs to pick from. The rise to celebrity of Oakley glasses and Oakley accessories has also been aided by the fact their sunglasses have made an appearance in quite a few well-known films of contemporary times – Mission Impossible 2, Spider Man and

X-Men are among these well known titles. In addition, well-known personalities like Lil Jon have endorsed the Oakley custom brandname – Lil Jon is actually a spokesperson for the business. There are Oakley Backpacks collection too!

Regrettably, as a result of their popularity, Oakley designer glasses are frequently copied and counterfeit sunglasses and accessories offered as the actual thing, often for inflated prices as well. Consequently, it's very important to ensure the Oakley Sunglasses Outlet you're acquired from a proper retailer. One way of distinguishing a counterfeit pair of Oakley sunglasses is to really look on the bridge. The brandname Oakley is imprinted there, and on fake glasses this is often spelled as Oakey. This has led to folks calling the counterfeit ones a number of names, such as Fakelys, Oakeys, Jokeleys and Fauxkleys. Whilst these names might possibly produce a smile when reading, it's no laughing matter to spend lots of dollars on one thing that is not the actual product, so attention must be taken when purchasing.

Genuine Oakley custom glasses and Oakley Sunglasses Accessories are really well worth the cash spent on them, as they're well recognized to be durable and may last a very long amount of time. As long as caution is taken when acquiring such glasses, numerous people are rather pleased and consider them to be money well spent.

a vast array of Nike footwear styles. We offer several http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-free-xt-motion-fit-c-4_16.html different types of Nike Air so you can choose the best level of cushioning for you. If a style contains Nike Air, the Air type will be called out on the product page. How does it http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-tr-fit-2012-c-4_7.html work? Pressurized air is captured inside a tough yet flexible urethane bag. Compression reduces the force of impact and then recovery allows the air unit to return to its original shape and http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-trainer-shoes-c-4_21.html volume. Air technology addresses the specific needs of the sport, the athlete's size, the terrain, the distance covered, and the speed and direction of movement. Configurations: heel, http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/lovers-nike-free-shoes-nike-free-30-v2-lovers-shoes-c-50_52.html forefoot, or both locations. Performance Benefits Nike Air is lightweight, versatile, durable cushioning. Lightweight Nike Air systems are lighter per unit volume than many other http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-70-v2-c-4_11.html midsole cushioning systems on the market today. Versatile Pressure, placement, and thickness of the Air-Sole unit are engineered for the specific needs of a sport or athlete. Durable Each system maintains its cushioning properties throughout the shoe's life. Cushioning Each Nike Air system is comprised of pressurized, compressible Nike Air http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-run-4-c-4_38.html chambers engineered to provide cushioning based on a specific performance insight. Nike Air Cushioning options NIKE AIR – Nike Air cushioning provides a comfortable ride. Nike Air http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-run-3-c-4_28.html is almost always encapsulated in the midsole or sockliner. Original Nike cushioning technology debuted in 1979. MAX AIR – Max Air technology is a form of Nike Air cushioning that http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-run-2-c-4_34.html contains maximum air volume for maximum impact protection. Always visible in the midsole. ZOOM AIR – Zoom Air cushioning comes in a flat, thin unit that provides low-profile, http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-run-c-4_36.html super-responsive cushioning for top speeds and fast "off-the-mark" movements. NIKE TUNED AIR – Tuned Air is a cushioning innovation that incorporates mechanical elements into a maximum volume Air-Sole unit. http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-50-v4-c-4_12.html What is Nike Free? It's a simple idea: let your body perform as it wants to perform to develop significant performance benefits. This is the philosophy of Nike Free, shoes that offer the http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-50-v4-suede-c-4_15.html proven benefits of barefoot training. Allowed their freedom, the toes will flex and grip, setting off a natural chain that exercises muscles normally neglected in traditional footwear. http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-30-v3-c-4_18.html By exercising these muscles, athletes can achieve small performance benefits, adding millimeters to a vertical leap or shaving milliseconds off a race time, while strengthening http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-30-v2-c-4_31.html key stabilizer muscles that help prevent injuries. The outsoles of Nike Free shoes feature siping (deep slices) and reverse flex grooves to encourage flexion and extension in both directions. http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/womens-nike-free-shoes-womens-nike-free-30-c-4_25.html With a lightweight seamless upper atop this flexible outsole, Nike Free shoes merge the natural, healthy motion of a bare foot with the protection of traditional footwear. What is Nike <http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/kids-nike-free-shoes-c-5.html> Flywire? Nike Flywire technology consists of strategically placed filaments that function like cables on a suspension http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/kids-nike-free-shoes-kids-nike-free-30-c-5_41.html bridge and offer support precisely where it's needed. These strong filaments are applied to a http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/kids-nike-free-shoes-kids-nike-free-50-c-5_48.html minimalistic shoe upper, reducing weight to create Nike's lightest footwear. Paper-thin fabric covers the top of the foot, with the Flywire technology attaching to the outsole and holding the http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/kids-nike-free-shoes-kids-nike-free-70-c-5_45.html foot in place. Biomechanics experts in the Nike Sports Research Lab determine optimal placement http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/kids-nike-free-shoes-kids-nike-free-leather-shoes-c-5_47.html of the filaments. What is Lunarlite foam? Extremely lightweight and highly responsive, Nike's newest Lunarlite foam cushioning draws its inspiration from man walking on the moon. http://www.nikefreerunshoes.com.au/kids-nike-free-shoes-kids-nike-free-run-c-5_46.html Lunarlite foam cushioning is 30% lighter than Phylon, Nike's next lightest performance foam. The hype for these Sneakers started and gained full force at the 2008 Grammy Awards where these hi-top styled kicks made their first appearance. The effect of this was that it sparked immediate interest and set the ball rolling creating instant hype as the next collectors item for all Sneaker heads and Yeezy fans.

A lot of people prefer indoor shoes though. They are great but as I mentioned above, they doesn't last for as long and they are as expensive as turf shoes. So I would go with turf. Futsal shoes is starting to get very popular but since a lot of them have a rather thin sole they last even shorter. But they are really great, they are very light and you can really feel the football when you're juggling. I would like to recommend Nike First Touch" if you would like to go for a turf shoe. They do the job for me and I really like them. At one point I bought 4 pairs so I knew I had new ones when it was time to change.

Whatever obstacles I found made me fight all the harder. But it would have been impossible for me to fight at all, except that I was sustained by the personal and deep-rooted belief that my fight had a chance. It had a chance because it took place in a free society. Not once was I forced to face and fight an immovable object. Not once was the situation so cast-iron rigid that I had no chance at all.

The second seed said, "I am afraid. If I send my roots into the ground below, I don't know what I will encounter in the dark. If I push my way through the hard soil above me I may damage my delicate sprouts.... what if I let my buds open and a snail tries to eat them? And if I were to open my blossoms, a small child may pull me from the ground. No, it is much better for me to wait until it is safe." And so she waited.

A yard hen scratching around in the early spring ground for food found the waiting seed and promptly ate it.

You just bought your favorite football team's jersey, but you didn't want to shell out the extra cash it takes to purchase an authentic jersey with your favorite player's name on it. Better yet, you would rather wear a jersey with your own name on it. Or, you're a football coach or athletic director searching for a sleek jersey lettering style for your team. Fear not; customizing the lettering that appears on the back of your newly-acquired jersey (or jerseys) is a simple process.

Don t take for granted the things closest to your heart. Cling to them as you would cling to your life, for without them, life is meaningless.
